CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—The meeting at the Methodist church began last night and will continue till further notice.

—The Baptist church has made a unanimous call on Rev. Preston Blake, of Madison, to become their pastor.

—The Register says that the meeting conducted by Revs. Crow and I. S. McElroy at Kirksville had 12 additions to last accounts.

—The Thanksgiving sermon by Rev. Ben Helm will be preached at the Methodist church, instead of at the Christian church, which is in the hands of the kal-sominers.

—Rev. H. C. Morrison is conducting a revival at Maysville, which has so far resulted in 6 additions. The singing is conducted by Prof. Fogg, a musician of some note.

—The protracted meeting at Moorefield, conducted by Rev. Jos. Evans and Hopper, is still progressing. The meeting has been largely attended and up to the present time over 30 have been added to the church.—[Carlisle Mercury.]

—Elder J. S. Sweeney is so fond of controversy that he arose from his seat at one of Bro. Barnes' meeting the other night and offered to debate certain theological questions with him, but Bro. Barnes declined, saying all such controversy was of the devil.

—Brother Barnes and Brother Craddock belong to the "Mutual Tickling Co., city." Bro. Barnes writes long letters to the INTERIOR JOURNAL and tattles Bro. Craddock, then Bro. Craddock writes another one in his paper and boasts Bro. Barnes, and they "stand off" each other in the advertising dodge.—[Lexington Transcript.]

—Miss Rose Richards has received the following from Bro. Barnes: "We go Monday and Tuesday to Winchester, Wednesday and Thursday to Georgetown, Friday and Saturday to Lancaster. Post mail accordingly. All well. Glorious meeting. Gilane." While he is so near why can't Stanford claim the privilege of at least two days? Come, Bro. Barnes, and gratify hundreds of hearts.

—S. E. Owsley, president of the Lincoln County Sunday-School Union, has called a convention of the workers in the good cause to meet at the Turnersville Christian church, Saturday, Dec. 1st, when subjects of importance to all interested in the work will be discussed by experienced men and women of the county. State Visitor H. A. Baldwin will visit as many points as possible, doing work in the interest of the convention, which will be held regardless of the weather. Those expecting to attend will please notify Dr. T. E. Lewis by Friday next.

IN MEMORIAM.

—At her home in Kirksville, Ky., Nov. 17, 1888, departed this life Mrs. Ella Jennings Stapp. How unexpectedly death with a relentless grasp snatches from our midst those whom we love, claiming them as his own! One by one, as the sacred leaves of the forest, we fall.

After a short illness of two weeks, with a disease which baffled the skill of experienced physicians, our dear sister, to whom the world was bright and full of promise, was cut down and forced to leave the dearest treasures known to earth.

The tendrils of love so fondly entwined around our hearts were suddenly snapped, and to-day we shed tears o'er a new-made grave, feeling that our loss is irreparable. For in this death the church loses a faithful member, the Sunday-school an earnest teacher and the Women's Christian Temperance Union one of its most efficient workers.

Deeply deploring this sad bereavement, we feel that life is action and is measured by experience, not time. While the subject of this sketch was young in years, yet she was faithful in every good cause and full of never failing devotion to the cause of her Savior, contributing in many ways to His service.

To the bereaved relatives in this dark hour of affliction much sympathy is extended, yet they mourn not as those without hope, for they know that the spirit of their loved one has only waited its flight to the bright home of the soul, where beside the great White Throne a guardian angel she stands with outstretched hands calling us over the tide.

By building a bridge of faith over the river of death may we see "There is no death; what seems so is transition," and we bow in uncomplaining submission to a divine will. Awaiting the final call from Him Who said, "Come up higher," may our guiding star ever be the beacon light above, where we all hope to meet on that resurrection morn, when the earth shall give up her dead.

"Oh how sweet it will be,
In that beautiful land,
So free from all sorrow and pain,
With songs on our lips
And with harps in our hands,
To meet one another again."

MINNIE LEGRANDE ELLIOTT.

—T. B. Barry, the expelled Knight of Labor, will set about founding a new order similar to his late love.

STANFORD GOSSIP.

In coming before a Stanford audience reached via the INTERIOR JOURNAL. Puck in his "Stanford Gossip" column will attempt no salutatory nor prelude, but instead, in a business like way, tell in as few words as possible the cream of gossip this Gotham furnishes. At times Puck may become a little personal, but at no time will he be guilty of an injustice to any one for the sake of the publication of a bit of gossip, however interesting it may be.

Desiring to know how Thanksgiving will be spent by society young people, Puck, while seated among a crowd of gallant young men, brought up the question in an inquiring way. The first to answer was a handsome drummer, who said that his Thanksgiving turkey would be eaten in Cincinnati with a particular friend of his, not mentioning what gender this particular friend was. Next to answer was a grocery clerk, and twisting his moustache, which, by the way, is a rather frail one, said he should hunt the first half and the afternoon should be spent in driving or strolling, just as his lady friend desired. No. 3, who is a fast horse man, and who occasionally has an accident, as is so natural with men who drive fiery steeds, declared that on that day he should test the speed of his lately purchased five-year-old, but after this was over he knew not what he would do. Before No. 3 had completed his programme, a fine-looking man, a regular Apollo, and a lawyer by profession, arose with a paper in his hand and said: "Boys, I think we ought to have a hop that night, and I for one will sign this paper, which reads that 'We, the boys, make up the money and turn it over to the ladies and let them give a rousing leap-year hop.' This was taken into consideration, and after a few remarks by No. 3 it was decided that should an attempt be made to do this, Christmas would be a better time, and it was finally decided to set the question aside for the present. The remaining gentleman, who had been unusually quiet during the entire conversation, was asked by Puck what he intended doing, and arising, presenting the appearance of a divine, he said in an oratorical manner that he would attend Jim Nunneley's turkey shooting, if he had it, if not, he supposed he would stay in his father's store, and like a dutiful son, help him all he could. Puck was then questioned, but there being so much to do, and so little time in which to do it, he had not yet decided, but that at present he was not engaged for dinner on that day.

Occasionally there are some rather laughable happenings in a prohibition town, and the following, if not laughable is at least true: On Saturday last our sheriff, Mr. Newland, was starting out for a day's work, and had upon his shoulders a pair of saddle-pockets, which to some extent resemble a doctor's medicine case, particularly those used by country physicians. As this good officer was standing on the corner of Main and Lancaster streets, thinking to himself who next would come up like a man and pay his taxes, he was approached by a thoroughbred Irishman. Taking him for a physician, this man from the Emerald Isle told him that he was very ill and that his only relief was a little whisky, and that he wanted a prescription for a pint of the stuff. Mr. Newland realizing that the joke was too good a one to end there, began to feel the "Paddy's" pulse, and insisted that there was not a thing wrong. The Irishman then began to plead with him, which aroused the sympathy of the sheriff, who had not the heart to carry it further, and finally pulling from his pocket his card and presenting it, the gentleman who was very sick just a few moments before laughed heartily and declared that that was indeed one on him.

—Quay, Mahone, et al have decided to begin proceedings in the Virginia State courts and the U. S. District Court for Virginia, attacking the right of the democratic electors of that State to cast their votes for President in the Electoral College. Fraud is the ground upon which the action will be based.

—The Supreme Court at Lincoln, Neb., decided that where usurious interest is taken from the face of a note by a National bank it can recover only the face of the note, less the usurious interest, and that where usurious interest had been paid in advance the borrower can recover double the amount of interest so paid.

—B. F. Vandergrift made an ascent in a balloon from the Columbus, Ga., Exposition grounds in the presence of 12,000 people last week. When the balloon reached a height of about 3,000 feet it burst and began falling. The aeronaut seized the parachute and came down easily, but fell in the river and was drowned before a boat could reach him.

—Joe Collins, of Cumberland Gap, resented the insult which Mrs. Bush offered him when on leaving from a visit to her daughter she suggested that it would gratify her if he would not call again, by snapping a pistol in her face. Old man Bush heard of it and seizing a shot gun he put five shots where they would do the most good in the body of the sensitive young man, who immediately proceeded to die.

What is sweeter than roses
That bloom in the beauty of June?
Or the stately and fragrant lilies
Whose bells ring a summer tune?
Ah, sweeter the roses blowing
O'er the cheeks of those we love,
And the lily of health that's glowing
The cheeks' red rose above.

But how soon the lily and the rose wither in the faces of our American women. Why is it? Simply because so many of them are victims of weaknesses, irregularities and functional derangements incidental to the sex. If they would use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription all these beauty and health destroying ailments might be warded off, and we would hear less about women "growing old before their time."

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the Christian church, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

—Sam Engleman and Bob Farris have gone to Casey county quail hunting. Look out for a dead horse.

—Elder C. C. Cline, for several months pastor in charge of the Christian church, will soon move with his family to Lexington. Our people greatly regret that he has decided to do so.

—The fast mail and passenger train was taken off the K. C. last Sunday and we are now at the mercy of the mixed freight and snail train that attempts to carry hogs and ladies and men and cattle and things. But, thank the Lord, this will not last long, as the L. & N. will certainly take charge of the road after January 1st and eventually extend it to the Three Forks.

—The Social Club for the season of '88-89 has been re-organized and is composed of some of the most gallant young men of our city. Their first party will be given Thanksgiving evening at Miller's Hotel. As Mrs. Holmes, the proprietress, is to furnish the edibles, it is certain that the supper will be an enjoyable and satisfactory feature of the occasion.

—To-day we lose two of our belles, slain by Cupid. At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Joseph Jones, of Clark county, and Miss Jennie Sweeney will be united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents in this city. At the same hour Mr. J. S. Hocker, of Stanford, and Miss Sallie Denny will be married at the residence of the bride's parents near town. Misses Sweeney and Denny are two of our most intelligent and attractive young ladies. Lincoln and Clarke are the equal winners of the two gems that Garrard loses to-day.

—Bro. Barnes and family will arrive at our town next Friday evening and will spend one night with us. They will be in Stanford the next day about noon and will board the afternoon train for Lebanon. Bro. Barnes will not preach while here, his visit being wholly of a social nature. The friends of the "Troupe" however, will be rejoiced to see them again, though their brief halt will admit of only a passing word. These wandering evangelists and homeless children of an exalted King have, through sermon and song, scattered here seeds of Truth that were gladly received at first, and have since been nursed and cherished because their unfolding has brought a generous harvest and sunshine and loyalty into once rebellious, dismal and unhappy lives. For their "work's sake" we honor and love them—love them very tenderly indeed; and while our affections thus cling to them, we know that they are but common pilgrims and poor earthly creatures like us all. While we know that "he that is of the earth is earthly," yet we all discern between creatures here and each has his choice. So to us there is special beauty and splendor and refining grace that attaches to earth's ivory when polished by the hand of heaven.

"Young man," said a revivalist, solemnly, "do you feel that you are prepared to answer the summons at any moment? Do you realize that when you go to bed at night you may be called before the morning dawns?" "Oh, yes, sir; I'm night boy at a doctor's, and all you've got to do is to keep on ringin' the bell till you hear me holler."

—In Taney county, Mo., Mrs. Amanda Truitt killed two of her young children with a hatchet and then cut her own throat with a butcher knife.

The Congress returns show that there will be 161 republicans and 160 democrats, with four doubtful districts to hear from, which will likely not change the majority of one. In the event the majority is so slim, it is said that an extra session of Congress will be called at once so that the republicans can organize without running the risk of deaths and other disasters that may occur before the regular session begins, a year from next December. On the other hand it is hinted that if the democrats have the majority of one, the republicans will cry fraud and retiring from the hall will organize anyway. In the meantime the democrats seem to give themselves but little concern about the result, rather leaning to the desire that the horns shall go with the hide, so that the republicans can have the entire responsibility of law-making, satisfied that they are sure to enact such as will in the end react against them and insure democratic success both at the Congressional elections of 1890 and the presidential election in 1892.

Downs in Owen county Judge Perry was boasting to Col. Wm. Lindsay, chairman of the Democratic Committee, that he had predicted Cleveland's defeat and seemed to be proud that he was able to take his rank with the "I told you so's." It riled the colonel, who told him he did not care a d—n for the prediction of a dough-faced democrat, who never lifted his hand or contributed a cent in the interest of his party. The judge replied in an angry way, when the colonel let him have it with his good right hand and laid him sprawling. All this happened in the court-room and Judge Monfort slapped a fine of $30 each to the combatants. Lindsay cheerfully paid his, remarking that he could stand crowing from the rads with some grace, but no feather-headed democrat could jaw him on the subject.

The fellow Rucker has been described as a very bad egg and now Editor Rothaker rises to remark that his second, "Gen." Moore, is "an old bum, who has not taken a bath in 40 years, a look at whom would give the average man a case of malaria." He further says if sent with the challenge to Blackburn he would have to be provided with a ticket and money to buy his hash along the road and that when he reached the Senator he would probably strike him for a quarter. They seem to be a bad lot all round and Blackburn is in the unfortunate fix of the fellow who takes a wrestle with an unmentionable. The sooner the whole thing is dropped, the better for the Senator and the public.

BECAUSE a fellow stopped his paper without paying for it, the editor of the Danville Olive Branch, which to live up to its name ought to take things more calmly, flies off the helve and exclaims: "Some men are as mean as the devil and as one-sided as hell." This may be the truth, boys, and you will more and more be convinced of it as your newspaper experience grows, but it is far from elegant and not such an expression as should appear in a strictly "independent, family paper." Besides, if you cuss, you won't catch any fish.

THE President says he doesn't remember to have met Mr. Rucker. That settles it. Mr. Cleveland is not the man to unbosom himself of his innermost secrets to even his most intimate friends, certainly never to one whose visit made no more impression on him than Rucker's. The gentleman, if gentleman he may be called, is evidently of the very "Cheap John" variety and Senator Blackburn has not raised himself in public estimation, either, by introducing him to the President or in noticing his transparent lies afterwards.

If the fact that Gen. Harrison is a close relative of Jefferson Davis had been sprung during the canvass, he would have lost every Northern State, so bitterly do the majority of the people there hate the rebel chieftain. It is no discredit, but an honor, for the President-elect to be related to such a man, who is intellectually the peer if not the superior of any man in the United States. If Harrison has half the sense of Jefferson Davis he will not lack for wisdom in the conduct of his administration.

THE Kansans are jubilant over the fact that having given Harrison a plurality of 80,176, theirs is the banner republican State. Well, she may have whatever of honor or dishonor there may be in the distinction. A State whose population to a great extent has been made up of people who could not live outside of the calaboose elsewhere, could not be expected to do otherwise than cling to the party of venality and rascality.

THE republican managers put up a claim that North Carolina had gone for them at first; but the official returns show a majority for Cleveland of 13,627. The prohibitionists polled 2,787 votes.

THE Mt. Vernon Signal prefers Matt Adams to Judge Durham for governor. If this thing keeps up every newspaper in the State will have its own special candidate.

A RICH and eccentric Boston widow, who buried her husband on an outlay of $30,000 and with a ceremony that lasted from 1 p. m. to midnight, drives every morning to the tomb and alighting from her carriage, gently taps at the iron door. Receiving no response, she says softly: "May I come in, dear?" and then taking silence for consent, she enters, and depositing a huge bouquet on the costly coffin, asks in a low voice, "How have you spent the night, my love?" She has also hired a man to go to the tomb at 6 o'clock each day and say, "Good morning, Dr. Heller," and at 6 at night, "Good night, Dr. Heller. We hope you will rest well." This foolishness will be kept up perhaps till the widow comes across some eligible man who wants to enjoy the doctor's fortune with her, and then the old love will be forgotten and it will matter little whether the back number rests well or not. It is dollars to cents that in less than a year there will be another confirmation of Rip Van Winkle's lament, "How soon are we forgot when we are gone."

It is authoritatively stated that of the seven chiefs of divisions in Commissioner of Internal Revenue Miller's office but one is a democrat, and all other employees in the bureau are republicans, save only one or two messengers and the solicitor, deputy commissioner and chief clerk. The solicitor was not changed till late last summer. All the others, including clerks, officials and employees are "hold-over" republicans. No wonder West Virginia was practically lost to the democracy, when its most important appointee makes such a record. It is virtually an admission that there are not competent democrats enough in the country to fill the offices.

GEN. PALMER, late democratic candidate for governor of Illinois, has done what every self-respecting democrat should do—withdrawn from the Grand Army of the Republic. He is satisfied from observation in the late campaign that that organization is being used in the interest of the republican party, and he does not, therefore, desire to further fraternize with it. It has been evident for a long time that the g. o. p. was simply an annex of the r. o. p. and it is strange that any democrat will continue to give aid and countenance to the organization.

If young Blaine, to whom Gen. Robinson, collector of the Lexington district, has so persistently held on to as chief deputy, when there are so many as competent and fully as deserving democrats who wanted the position, has any sense of gratitude he will endeavor to get Robinson's job after his term is out and then repay him for his kindness by making him his chief deputy. By that time the general will have gotten to be a pretty good man at the business and able to make himself "indispensable."

HARRISON'S plurality in Ohio is 19,589 and those democrats who bet that the republican majority of that State would be less than 20,000 are enabled to catch even to some extent, as it is said that a large amount had been wagered by the republicans that it would reach and exceed that figure. There were 841,941 votes cast in the State, the prohibitionists polling 24,356 and the labor ticket 34,946. Harrison's majority is more than 12,000 less than Blaine's.

It has been nearly nine years since the census was taken and it will soon be time for the work of taking another to begin, yet it was only last week that the last set of the 22 quarto volumes aggregating 19,304 pages was printed. The amount originally appropriated for the work was $3,000,000, but the cost has been nearly double that amount. The reports are the most comprehensive ever gotten out and contain a mass of information that it would take a lifetime to read.

HAYES, the individual who retired into obscurity and began the more congenial business of raising chickens, after serving the presidential term that the people had said should belong to Samuel Jones Tilden, emerged from the shades of his hen coops last week and delivered a very creditable address on prison reform before a Chicago audience, which packed the hall to get a glimpse of a man who was president four years without being elected.

THERE is some talk of M. H. DeYoung, the California editor, being placed in Harrison's cabinet. If he is, he will be the first Jew to occupy such a position. The firm of Benjamin & Levi has rather a Jewish flavor, but we hardly expect Benjamin will feel like honoring a man, who, from his seat in the convention at Chicago, said, "If Harrison is nominated his Chinese record will lose him California by 30,000 majority."

Is a total vote of nearly 350,000 cast for presidential electors in this State at the recent election, the democrats gained 30,635 over 1884 and the republicans 37,014. Every last son-of-a-gun of a republican went to the polls; the weather and the bad roads kept some of the less patriotic democrats from going there.

PERRY county, the report of whose official vote has delayed the final reckoning of the vote of the State, has at last come up, and Cleveland's majority is found to be 28,416, or more than 12,000 greater than Buckner's.

The much talked of surplus in the National Treasury will soon be but a memory. The republicans will take care that it will no longer disturb the body politic, by bringing forward all the wild-cat schemes imaginable. The pauper pension bill will come to the front to take many hundred millions; the Blair bill will require $75,000,000; Senator Chandler wants a cool hundred million to build a new navy; the Atlantic Coast defenses a hundred millions more, and so on. Harrison won't have to bother his mind about the surplus, as Cleveland has done. There'll be none less than two years from now.

In a breezy letter to the Louisville Times, Judge C. E. Kincaid suggests that Cleveland in his retreat "may turn his attention to multiplying and replenishing the earth, while Harrison enjoys the fullness thereof." Cleveland has had his day, and a grand one it was, and can afford to retire, as he will, with the plaudits of the people, and spend his remaining years in the sunshine of the presence of the uncrowned queen of American womanhood.

A RELIGIOUS weekly says that Gen. Harrison is such a strict Presbyterian that he refuses to open his mail on Sundays. That settles it; he'll adhere strictly to the Civil Service pledges which he has made, and will be very far from endorsing any vicious legislation. He will make a President much after the order of Cleveland, and his friends will cut his throat in '92.—[Paris News.]

THE editor of the Chicago Tribune is trying to incite the Southern negroes to insurrection and advises them to murder and burn for their rights. If the courts do not take cognizance of the murderous coward's offense the decent people of Chicago owe it to themselves to hang him or burn him at the stake.

—The National Editorial Association, in session at San Antonio, Texas, has elected J. R. Bettis, of Arkansas, as president and will meet next year at Detroit.

—It is claimed that the fellow that Harrison has selected for his private secretary is the same who wrote the Murchison letter to Lord Lionel Sackville West.

—A call has been issued for a constitutional convention to be held at Jamestown, Dakota, Dec. 5, to further the early admission of the two Dakotas into the Union.

—St. John, prohibitionist candidate for president in 1884, received 151,800 votes. This year General Fisk is estimated to have received 265,000 votes, a gain of 75 per cent.

—The Hendricks Club, of Indianapolis, held impressive memorial services over the grave of Thomas A. Hendricks Sunday, the occasion being the third anniversary of his death.

—At Jacksonville Sunday 1 new case and 1 death from yellow fever were reported. At Gainesville there were no new cases and no deaths. The weather is cool and frost is hoped for at Jacksonville.

—A writ was served on the governor of West Virginia yesterday, enjoining him from issuing certificates of election to the republican Congressmen-elect from the 1st, 3d and 4th districts of the State.

—A resolution was adopted by the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor, in session at Indianapolis, urging Congress to pass a measure making gambling in wheat an offense punishable by imprisonment and fine.

—It seems about settled that West Virginia will have a democratic legislature and that she has given her electoral vote to Cleveland, but the official count, which is not yet concluded, can alone decide whether Fleming, dem., or Goff, rep., is elected governor.

—The breach of promise suit by the Widow Hubbard against Millionaire Fry at Beaver, Pa., which has created such a sensation for the newspapers, resulted Saturday in a verdict for the old man, who proved that the widow had asked him to marry her and in every way tried to seduce him.

To make whitewash that will not rub off mix half a pailful of lime and water, ready to put on the wall; then take one gill of flour and mix it with water sufficient to thicken it; then pour it while hot into the whitewash; stir it all well together, and it is ready for use.

Chloride of lime is an infallible preventive for rats, as they flee from its odor as from a pestilence. It should be thrown down their holes and spread about wherever they would be likely to come, and should be renewed once a fortnight.

Scribner's Magazine

FOR 1889.

The publishers of Scribner's Magazine aim to make it the most popular and enterprising of periodicals, while at all times preserving its high literary character. 25,000 new readers have been drawn to it during the past six months by the increased excellence of its contents notably the Railway articles and it closes its second year with a new impetus and an assured success. The illustrations will show some new effects and nothing to make Scribner's Magazine attractive and interesting will be neglected.

THE RAILROAD ARTICLES will be continued by several very striking papers; one especially interesting by Ex-Postmaster General Thomas James on "The Railway Postal Service." Illustrated.

MR. ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON'S serial novel, "The Master of Ballantrae," will run thro' the greater part of the year. Begun in November. A CORRESPONDENCE and collection of manuscript memoirs relating to J. E. Millet and a modern group of FRENCH PAINTERS will furnish the substance of several articles. The brief and papers written last year by Robert Louis Stevenson will be replaced by equally interesting contributions by different famous authors. Mr. Thomas Bailey Aldrich will write the first of them for the January number.

Many valuable LITERARY ARTICLES will appear, a paper on Walter Scott's Methods of Work, illustrated from original MSS., a second "Shelf of Old Books," by James T. Fields, and many other articles equally noteworthy. Illustrated.

Articles on ART SUBJECTS will be a feature. Papers are arranged to appear by Clarence Cook, E. H. Blasfield, Austin Dobson, and many others.

FISHING ARTICLES, describing sport in the best fishing grounds will appear. Salmon, Wintertime Bass and Tarpon are the subjects now arranged. The authors are well known sportsmen. Illustrated.

ILLUSTRATED ARTICLES of great variety, touching upon all manner of subjects, travel, biography, description, etc., will appear, but not of the conventional commonplace sort. Illustrated.

Among the most interesting in the list of scientific papers for the year will be a remarkable article by Prof. John Trowbridge upon the most recent developments and uses of PHONOGRAPHY. Illustrated.

A class of articles which have proved of special interest will be continued by a group of papers upon ELECTRICITY in its most recent applications, by eminent authorities; a remarkable paper on DEEP MINING and other interesting papers. Unique illustrations.

THE last meeting of the Kentucky Millers' Association reduced the price of flour, Supt. W. N. Potts tells us, 25 cents per hundred on all grades.

JOHN NEWLAND arrested Friday Dr. John Powell and Fort Owsley, a couple of negroes from the West End, on the charge of selling whisky without government license and after keeping them in jail till yesterday took them to Lancaster for trial.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—I will sell for cash in hand before the court-house door in Stanford on Monday, December county court day, 98 acres and 54 poles of land located in Lincoln county, about 3 miles north-west of Hustonville. Any one desiring to purchase such a place had better look at the above before the day of sale. T. D. Newland, S. L. C. It is known as the Polly Carter place.

HOG THREE.—Mr. Gastineau, living on the Danville pike, had three 300-pound hogs stolen Friday night. They were traced to Danville, and the town marshal taking the case in hand, succeeded in finding them in the possession of a negro by the name of Coffey, who was lodged in jail. Other parties in that neighborhood have had hogs, chickens, corn, etc., stolen, and it is believed that the capture of this thief will have a tendency to put a stop to the business.

SCHOOLER, the man who wanted to clean out the Cook family, and Jess Cook who shot at him for it, were fined each $5 and costs by the court Friday. The case against Sim R. Cook for carrying concealed weapons was continued.

THE colored Odd Fellows are building a creditable hall, 30x60 feet, near the Christian church in Macksville. It will be two stories high and cost about $1,000. Dr. S. G. Hocker is building it for them and takes his pay in installments.

A CASEY county democrat who supported Gen. Wolford says that boodle beat the old man, but it could not have beaten a more acceptable candidate. Wolford's advocacy of the Blair bill and his vote to override the president's veto of the pauper pension bill put him in the same boat with Finley and made it hard for democrats to support him.

At his trial for selling whisky at Rowland, E. C. Montgomery was fined $20 each in three cases and $10 in the fourth, but on a statement made of his condition and that of his family by his brother, Eld. J. Q. Montgomery, the fines were reduced to $80 and reprieved at that amount. Mr. Montgomery claims that he did not sell the whisky outright, but merely had it as an inducement for trade at his store.

THE citizens of Rowland chose wisely and well when they made Thomas L. Shelton police judge. Those who have had business in his court tell us he is quick to see the justice of a case and to apply the remedy. Unlike the Court of Appeals, he has a mortal dislike to technicalities and they count for naught with him. If he thinks a man is guilty he slaps the "dobbins" to him in short order, and that's the end on't.

THE question of lighting the town by electricity is being discussed, but we fear that the experience of spending $800 for lamp posts, etc., and then getting no value received will make the council a little chary of a second attempt to light the town. It is claimed, however, that a dynamo could be attached to the Roll-or Mills engine for a cost not exceeding $500 and that a company could make a handsome profit at furnishing lights at $1 each per month. This is the price paid in Winchester, with apparently good results all around.

THIS seems to be the lay-out as at present arranged: Gen. Bradley is to warn the attorney general's seat in Harrison's cabinet; Geo. W. Gentry is to be recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia; Lawyer Davison is to be collector of internal revenue (ye gods and little fishes) and B. G. Alford postmaster of Stanford. The latter will be about the only one to get there, perhaps, while the others, after chewing the cud of disappointment a long time, will finally settle down to something more in the nature of the eternal fitness of things.

ANOTHER RICHMOND.—Miss Edith Morgan, of Highland, a teacher of pronounced ability, writes us: "I have applied for the Stanford postoffice. Give me a 'lift' if you can." We are always for the women, right or wrong, especially when they are as pretty as Miss Morgan, and we cheerfully give her a "lift," tho' with misgivings of our influence with the incoming administration. We can say for the accomplished lady that if she is as adept in handling letters as she is in writing them, she would make an admirable postmistress as she would make a handsome one.

BAD WRECK.—Friday morning about light as Capt. Doody's coal train ran out of tunnel No. 8, near Hazel Patch, the flange of a wheel broke off the car it was to and threw it off the track with eight others into the Little Rockcastle River below. Fortunately the coupling to an engine broke and it remained on the rails. Two brakemen were hurt, Bob Martin, not very badly, and Jim Mershon, of this place, a son of Gran Mershon, severely. The root of his nose, bone and all, were torn out, along with the left wing and a portion of it could not be found. His lip is torn, two front teeth are knocked out, his head is gashed in numerous places and his leg badly bruised and torn. Dr. Peyton was called to the scene and he returned with Mr. Mershon that evening on the passenger, which was delayed four hours by the accident. The wounded man is doing fairly well, but he is greatly disfigured.

JUDGE MORROW advertises that he will hold a special term of his court here December 8th.

JIM NUNNELLEY will have his regular turkey shooting Thanksgiving day, and that's about the only diversion for the day we have heard of.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Mr. A. R. Swearingen, 21, and Miss Mary Phelps, 19, were married in the West End yesterday.

—Upton Muir, son of Judge P. B. Muir, of Louisville, is shortly to wed a Miss Harrison, of Charlottesville, Va., a third cousin of the president-elect.

—It is announced that Col. Cassius M. Clay, Jr., of Bourbon, is to be married on the 6th of December to Miss Mary Blythe, daughter of Senator John D. Harris, of Madison.

—In attempting a pun on a marriage announcement copied from this paper, Craddock makes a fearful break, for which, we understand, he will be called to account by the prospective groom, who is as mad as a March hare.

—Capt. Dan O'Malley, of the L. & N., and Miss M. L., daughter of Newton Smith, Esq., of this county, drove to the residence of Father Brady, at Danville, Sunday, and were made one in an impressive Catholic ceremony, Mrs. Dick Lawton, of Louisville, and Mr. Ed Carter standing up with them. The party, which included Judge T. L. Shelton, who went along to see it well done, then repaired to the Gilcher House, where they enjoyed a fine dinner, and afterwards the new pair drove to Mr. J. W. Adams' to supper. Last night a reception was given them at Mr. H. C. Gann's, where the captain boards, and where the light of his bride's countenance first fell athwart his vision.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—California will add 100,000 acres to her vineyards this winter.

—Sam Owens bought of W. B. Hill a lot of 325-pound hogs at 5 cts.

—M. Livingston sold to R. H. Crow a 6-year-old horse and a new buggy for $150.

—FOR SALE.—23 No. 1 yearling mules. Call on or address A. K. Denny, Shelby City, Ky.

—H. F. Rodgers sold to J. F. Scott & Bro., of Lexington, 50 tons of hemp at $4.50 per cwt.

—Corn is being delivered at $2 per barrel. A farmer near town sold 50 barrels in the field at $1.30.

—Editors who essay to publish a list of the courts ought to get them correct before they fire loose. We are talking at you, Bre'r McCarty. Our county court is on the 1st Monday and not on the day you state.

—Charles Clements sold to Alex and George Raley 80 barrels of corn for $2.50. Mattingly & Slams sold to Leonard, Gentry & Co., New Orleans, an extra car-load of mules for $175. The same firm has put 300 cattle to slop at the Calvary Distillery, averaging 1,100 pounds, and which cost 3 cts. On Tuesday Mattingly, Wathen & Co. shipped car-loads of hogs to Louisville and three Wednesday, for which they paid $5 per cwt.—Lebanon Enterprise.

—The sale of Thomas Robinson's effects Saturday was well attended and although bidding was slow, satisfactory prices were realized. Machinery, wagons, etc., brought fair prices; hogs $4.84 to $5.10; milk cows $17 to $27.75; yearling heifers $18; yoke oxen $91.50; aged mules $70 to $105; hay, per ordinary size stack, $19; brood mares $80 to $135; 2-year-old mare $176; 4-year-old gelding $131. Vermont Hambletonian was bought by Wm. Stigall, of Boyle, for $535 and Kenney Wilkes was withdrawn at $355.

"Harry," she sweetly said, "you remember if Harrison were defeated I was to marry you, and if Cleveland were defeated you were to marry me." "Yes," said he in dejected tones. "Well, Cleveland is defeated," she continued suggestively. "I know it. Mistortunes never come singly," and he got up and went out where he wouldn't smother.

It is dangerous for a man to be too perfect in his part when proposing marriage to a girl. He will give himself away in such a way that she will know he has proposed many times before and will not regard it as a compliment. He should seem agitated, and awkward, and stammer, and she will take him at his word before he really says it and all will be well.

The smallest steam engine ever made has just been completed, after two years of labor, for the Paris exhibition. It is composed of 180 pieces of metal, is a shade under three-fifths of an inch in height and weighs less than one-ninth of an ounce. A watch-maker made it.

It is said that if when a horse balks you will quietly get out of the vehicle, lift one of his feet and strike on it a few times, it will divert his attention and he will start right off after you get back to your seat. Give it a trial.

If all the Kentuckians who expect offices under Harrison were to stand in a line and hold hands they would make a girdle around the earth and have margin enough left to tie a bow knot on the other side.—Knoxville Commercial.

—Bishop H. N. McTyeire, of the Southern Methodist Church, is critically ill with typhoid fever at his home in the Vanderbilt University grounds at Nashville, Tenn.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Not visible to human eye.
And all the hosts who gather there,
For some we greet with just a sigh,
And some a breath of voiceless prayer.

But bright and clear the home-fires burn,
And we will moun no summer skies,
When we have only need to turn
And see them in each other's eyes.
Be thou a type and sign of love,
Can bright the flowers of love that spring
Within its bower of dreams apart,
Where songs of hope forever ring.

O sweet assembling, precious day,
When truth and mercy keep their tryst,
And reverent hands are raised to pray
Where righteousness and truth have kissed;
Be thou a type and sign of love,
Of Heaven's reunion, love and bliss,
And oh, may every one be there
Whom Christ shall call to be His guest!

A POET OF THE FAITH.

Old Stephen Filter's Conversion—
A Thanksgiving Story.

CHAPTER I.

LD Stephen Filter was so black that he was sometimes referred to as "The Burnt Stump." He was, though, envied by nearly all the colored gentlemen on the adjoining plantations, not on account of any physical or even mental superiority, but because the old fellow owned an excellent tract of land and was reputed to be the possessor of several thousand dollars in cash. Mandy, Stephen's daughter, was, of course, the belle of the neighborhood. She had inherited her father's depth of blackness; in fact, she had gone to a greater length in the line of inheritance, and had largely taken of the old man's kidney feet. The father's affections were centered upon the girl; and, in the evening, when the droning black bugs that labored through the heavy air, he was wont to sit under a squash vine that grew about the door and think of the time when she should be the wife of an influential man.

Mandy had been taught, to hold in disdain the matrimonial negotiations of the commonplace young fellows of the neighborhood, and so far from having been carried off by the old man's instructions that for him the future held but few fears of family degeneration. In his vanity he had often said to her: "Mandy, money an' ground dat'll raise big years o' co'n an' monster stalks o' cotton is de things dat talks wid de loudest voice in dis yare s'ciety o' our day an' time; darfo', look out fur de man wid de right sorter 'fluence'."

"Spoken I doan lub de man dat's got what you calls de right sorter 'fluence'?" she once asked.

Old Stephen threw up his head and snorted like a "glandered" horse: "Spoken you doan lub him?" he exclaimed. "Doan lub him! Wy, blast my crap ef I ain't er gret mite ter take dat on-bow out dar an' wrop ter round you 'bout fo' times fur de ignorance dat you has talker bout not lubin' er man o' 'fluence'! Come, now, Mandy, neber let me yare you make sich a po' folks' s'clamation ez dat ergin. Lemme tell you, I lubes in de Lawd an' looks ter Him ez much ez I ken, but ez sho ez I lub I rather you'd marry a rich sinner den er po' angel. Caze why?

"What, you talk erbout not lubin' er man o' 'fluence'?"

"I'll explain why. It's because I sees dat de white folks is de same way. Da goes ter church an' inessurs ter preacher talk ergin money, an' de naikt day you sees em ter chasin' suthin' it ter break dar naiks."

"What is it da's chasin'?" de daughter o' de soul? No, honey, da's chasin' er dollar de hill and down by de branch, round de co'n crib an' ober in de new ground." An' who is dat man stap'in' dar er chappin' his han's un' yellin' 'go on, go on!' Dat's de preacher, honey; an', lemme tell you, it ain't no show thinkin' dat he doan' head dat dollar off an' ketch it hisse' f. I see talkin' to yo' head now, chile!"

"Yes, sah," the girl replied, "money ginerly talks to der head, but dat ain' what de honest 'oman wants. She wants suthin' ter talk ter de heart."

Sim Posey was a poet and was consequently regarded as the most trifling negro in the neighborhood. Mandy first met him at Bajon Cypress, a watering place. He had come further to entertain the guests. He did not write his rhymes, indeed he knew not a letter of the alphabet, but he recited them. Mandy was charmed by him. He had sung of her eyes and teeth and had paid a high compliment to her amblying walk. He had called upon her several times, her home, and as he had come dressed in a suit of blue broadcloth (and this too shortly after a steamboat captain lost a suit of blue clothes) old Stephen seemed to be kindly disposed toward him, but when the old fellow learned that Sim was a mere singer of rhymes, he frowned upon him so darkly that the poet, with a sort of nervous trembling humor, said: "Must be gwine ter rain, I see sicher black cloud."

"Yas," the old man replied, "yas it is gwine ter rain. Gwine ter rain pitchforks, too, lemme tell you."

One evening, a short time after the old man had made the buck-shot thrut, Sim, after slyly picking his way through the woods, called at Mandy's house. He found her sitting in the shaded doorway, singing a soft and melancholy song. All that kept her from blushing when Sim surprised her was the extreme darkness of her complexion.

"Law, Sim," she exclaimed, "ef you doan git erway from yare dady'll fill you up wid buck-shot."

"Wall, he ain't apt'er do it right now, caze I seed him goin' ober toward de sto'."

"Whoa! who dat callin' me?"

Look yare, sweet chile o' natur, I got ter marry you, caze I jest natchally kain't he'p it. When I sees you de birds' gins ter sing wid er new tune, an' de rosebud what yistiday want' able to open its lips busts out in er joyful laugh o' full bloom."

"Sim, please go erway. Ef you doan dady'll shoot you."

"Ter me, Sim, continued, 'you is a lamb dat lubs in de fresh clover, de bird dat sleeps in de honeysuckle vines, an' at mornin' drinks de sweet dew. Now I gwine talk bizness. Ken you git yo' dady interested in de camp-meetin' dat da gwine ter start ober by de creek?"

"I reckons so, but what good dat gwine do?"

"Neber mine. You git him worked up an' w' you does doan you go wid him at night. Doan ax no questions, but do ez I tells you. One word to I go. Ef yo' dady gins his consent will you marry me?"

"You knows I would."

"All right. Good-by."

CHAPTER II.

The daughter evinced such interest in the welfare of her father's soul that the old man was deeply moved. He went to the camp-meeting and became much concerned. He was getting old and might not live but a little while longer. He had not said enough attention to his soul. He wanted, as nearly as possible, to make good the precious time which he had lost.

One night, while at the mourners' bench, he thought that he felt a change of heart, and as he rode along the lonely road towards home he continued to pray. Suddenly a voice from over head startled him:

"Stephen Filter, Stephen Filter!"

"Whoa. Who dat callin' me?"

"Stephen Filter, look ter yo' soul."

"Lawd lub mus' on me; Lawd hab mus'! What mus' I do?"

"Stephen Filter, preach de gospel o' de Lawd."

"I kain't preach; oh, Lawd, dy sarvent kain't preach."

"Stephen Filter, on Thanksgiving Day er man will come ter yo' house. Gib him yo' daughter an' let him take yo' farm while you preach."

"Who is de man?"

"Er poet o' de faith. Stephen Filter, you hab made er narrer 'scape. Go."

The old man whipped up his horse. Sim came down out of a tree.

The next morning, at breakfast, the old man's face wore an expression of deep concern.

"Mandy, ain't ter morrer Thanksgiving Day?"

"Yas, sah."

"Yas, would you like fer me ter preach de Gospel?"

"Yas, sah, ef you feels like it."

The next day, at quite an early hour, Sim arrived.

"Wy, good mawnin', Mr. Poet; good mawnin'! sah. Hain't seed you fur some time. Glad you come. Look yare, I see got er bout er nuff o' de foolishness o' dis world, an' it strikes me dat I oughter preach. Hole ober yare an' lemme tell you suthin'."

Dat daughter o' mine lubs you. She do fur er fact. Now, I tell you what I want. I want you ter marry her dis day."

"Wall, sah, I think I ken 'comerate you."

Shortly afterward the ceremony was performed.

"Dady," Mandy said, when the old man got up from the dinner table, "what you gwine do?"

"Gwine ober ter Mount Salem ter preach dis ebenin'. May de Lawd be wid you, my chullun."

THANKSGIVING.

UR Yankee forefather, had wisdom right smart.

For, knowin' man's nature to grumble, They only one day in de year set apart.

To make dat one yare a success They feasted and stuffed him with turkey.

So he, feeling good, And see his surroundings less murky.

For one little day in the whole of de year They asked him to leave off complainin' And give a few thanks to de One we revere.

For blessings He ever is rainin'.

But man wouldn't do it—not even ef he On turkey forever was dinin';

The dark side of clouds he will eagerly see And hide from their slivory linin'.

Unless he finds fault he's not happy at all, And er'en on this day he should treasure.

His turkey's too big—or a turkey's too small— To su'th unsuitable measure.

But some time, we hope—when millenium's here— A man may be found who is livin' Who'll do his growin' one day in de year, And spend all de rest in Thanksgiving.

Cough, Croup, Asthma, Aneurysm, Pectoral, and all other diseases of the Throat and Lung. It is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in return of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hepler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terrebonne, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy."

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered me hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I laid up, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, which were of no avail, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, was as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.
